SEPTA OKs new fare technology

▶ After years of debate, $130 million contract awarded to experienced company ▶ 'Contactless' payment pilot system in place by 2013 for riders

SEPTA's board of directors awarded a $129 million contract to a Maryland-based firm to provide equipment for and install its new fare system on Thursday.

SEPTA officials claim the antiquated system of tokens and paper transfers will be replaced by cutting-edge contactless technology such as debit cards, identification cards and smartphones that customers can continue to add value. For customers who prefer using cash, they can buy prepaid SEPTA cards that they can wave by a card reader.

ACS Transportation Solutions Inc., a subsidiary of Xerox, offered the lowest price of the three companies who submitted bids and also got the highest ratings from SEPTA on its technology and experience. The company piloted a similar open payment system on New York City's MTA in 2006 and expanded that pilot to PATCO and NJ Transit last year.

"We think we have the best solution in true open payment systems," said Steve Frazzini, ACS vice president for fare payment solutions.

The project will be divided into three phases and take three years to complete. It will be rolled out first on buses and trolleys, followed by the Market-Frankford Line and Broad Street Subway, and then the Regional Rail system, officials said.

SEPTA cashiers will be redeployed and largely used for customer service, according to General Manager Joe Casey, who added that the new system will lead to cost-saving efficiencies such as ending agreements with third-party ticket agents.

"Under the current scenario we don't expect the need for that," Casey said.

At a Glance

- Like EZ Pass, riders would be able to automatically replenish their account by linking it to a bank account or credit card.
- Weekly and monthly passes will still be available once value is added to the contactless card.
- New fare machines will be placed in the subway-elevated and Regional Rail stations.

▶ Be gone tokens!

Questions remain over rail

PHILADELPHIA. Regional Rail customers will either be required to show their cards on board or pass through turnstiles at five Center City stations. Some transit advocates say that will leave the door open for fare evasion.

"The railroad side ... is completely unprecedented," said Matthew Mitchell, of the Delaware Valley Association of Rail Passengers. METRO

"There is no other system in the nation that has required all of its customers to go through turnstiles and all of its customers to use a tag-off for their commuter rail systems." MITCHELL

Kenney: Don't choke on that hoagie

Squabbling between Councilmen Jim Kenney and Bill Green walked a line between banter and derision as the two exchanged barbs at a Council meeting.

Green was the lone opponent of Kenney's bill that would ban employers from taking a portion of workers' tips to cover credit card fees, which eventually passed.

"I agree with the policy behind this bill, but I think the bill goes further than necessary to protect workers from abuse," Green said.

RIKARD LARMA/METRO

▶ Kenney

"I think the bill speaks for itself, but I would like to thank Councilman Green for his continued scrutiny of every bill I introduce," Kenney replied. "I feel like I have a second legal assistant."

Then, as the session neared its close, Kenney made a speech about the National Sandwich Day competition he judged on Nov. 3, then doled out free hoagies to fellow Council members.

"I would like to congratulate him on this extremely important, substantive speech he just gave," Green said.

"I would like to advise Councilman Green to chew his hoagie thoroughly so he doesn't choke," Kenney retorted.

OCCUPY PHILLY

▶ Occupy Philly march

Occupy Philly protesters took over a City Council meeting Thursday afternoon.

A group interrupted Council's agenda by shouting out against the stricter curfew bill, which passed three weeks ago. Some lawmakers left or scrambled to safer positions in the room and though Civil Affairs officers closed in on the protesters, they did not take action against them.

When Council tried to call the session back to order, the Occupiers called a "People's City Council" with its own agenda.

"I'm all for protest, but if this really is about economic opportunity they need to up their game."

GOODE, ON THE PROTESTERS' AGENDA

They loudly voted to repeal the curfew, pass the proposed measure banning employers to take a portion of credit card fees from employees' tips and let the Occupy Philly camp stay at Dilworth Plaza — and then marched out.

"We came through the proper channels to speak to the legislators and they ignored us," protester Adan Diaz said, adding that Brown offered to meet with dissenters, but her office ignored the group's efforts to schedule the meeting.

"In particular, today, I found it strange that they focused on the curfew when we passed many aggressive issues this week, including tax reform, which they didn't address," Councilman Wilson Goode Jr. said. "They haven't even taken on the issue of Dilworth Plaza itself. Did they ask for jobs for Philadelphia workers?"

Opinion

BLONDELL REYNOLDS BROWN

COUNCILWOMAN AT LARGE

LEARNING FROM PENN STATE

"All that is required for the triumph of evil is for good men to do nothing." This simple 18th century quote by Edmund Burke strikes to the core of something that is so very now — the tragedy that is unfolding at my alma mater and former employer, Penn State University.

As a parent of a 15-year-old, I am stricken by the media coverage and its focus. In my eyes, this is not a football story; it is a story of adults who had a duty to protect children and did not. Period. The haze of football has clouded the minds and judgment of so many — be it those at Penn State who flunked their obligation to the most vulnerable amongst us or those who watch from home and offer a few too many excuses.

One has to wonder what this tragedy would look like if it were not Penn State football. What if it were the Penn State tennis or lacrosse programs? What if this happened to young girls in an award-winning dance academy? Would there be public debate over the firing of a dance teacher who knew of child rape for nine years and never called the police?

Without the overwhelming devotion that millions share for Penn State football, the narrative of this story would be what it should have been the entire time: a shocking, despicable child sex-abuse story resulting in a massive cover-up thanks to the adults that turned a blind eye.

Make no mistake, I share the incredible pride in my Penn State education and experience that so many alumnae have. It was there that I earned a bachelor's degree and master's degree before working as a recruiter for five years. There is, however, a marked difference between school spirit and blind allegiance to a singular athletic department that enabled criminal behavior against children.

I am encouraged by the efforts of state representatives Kevin Boyle and Louise Williams Bishop, who have introduced legislation that strengthens reporting laws that allowed some at the college to technically obey the law while avoiding their moral and human obligation. This week, I introduced legislation that would ensure any city employee who is convicted of committing sexual offenses against minors will be disqualified from receiving their retirement and pension benefits.

Although we operate with presumption of innocence, I join a growing chorus of Pennsylvanians that are outraged by the prospect of Coach Sandusky continuing to collect a $58,000 annual taxpayer-funded pension even if convicted.

In the end, I hope we all use this tragedy to look within and prioritize what is most important in this life: the health and safety of our children.

Charged in attempt to assassinate Obama

PITTSBURGH. A 21-year-old man accused of firing shots at the White House last week was charged on Thursday with trying to assassinate U.S. President Barack Obama, though the president was out of town at the time.

Oscar Ortega-Hernandez of Idaho appeared in a Pittsburgh court after his arrest on Wednesday at a hotel near Indiana, Pa., according to the U.S. Secret Service.

No one was hurt in the shooting on Friday night. Obama and wife, Michelle, were not in Washington at the time.

The Secret Service said one bullet broke a White House window but was stopped by protective ballistic glass, and the other round struck the exterior of the building. REUTERS

Authorities foil Occupiers' bid to shut Wall Street

New York police prevented protesters from shutting down Wall Street on Thursday, arresting at least 177 people in repeated clashes with an Occupy Wall Street rally that drew fewer demonstrators than expected.

Hundreds of Occupy Wall Street protesters took to the streets in rainy New York and elsewhere in the United States for a day of action seen as a test of the momentum of the 2-month-old grassroots movement against economic inequality.

In the biggest New York protest since a police raid broke up the protesters' encampment in a park near Wall Street on Tuesday, organizers and city officials had expected tens of thousands to turn out. Mayor Michael Bloomberg put the figure at fewer than 1,000. REUTERS

Occupy elsewhere

- Anti-capitalist protesters defied a deadline to remove their tents from outside St. Paul's Cathedral in London on Thursday, heralding a new phase in their legal standoff with officials in London's financial district.
- More than a dozen people were arrested on Thursday morning in Dallas when police on horseback and in riot gear evicted Occupy Dallas protesters from a site near City Hall where they have been camping for the past six weeks.

Drake makes sure to ‘Take Care’

▶ The Canadian rapper on trying to prevent an album from leaking ▶ Also on A-list guest stars and balancing philosophy with party rhymes

Drake

When Canadian rapper Drake found out his latest album, “Take Care,” had leaked online a week before its release, he took to Twitter and in a very practical tone wrote to his 4 million followers, “Listen, enjoy it, buy it if you like it...and take care until next time.”

This pragmatic response is telling of Drake’s approach. On “Take Care,” he frequently raps about what he observes with a sense of both realism and optimism. This is present most in songs like “We’ll Be Fine” and “HYFR,” where he says, “I learned working with the negatives could make for a better picture.”

Quoted

> “One of my biggest goals in life is just to be a quoted individual, and to be somebody whose words matter.”
> DRAKE

Is it just a given that an album will leak before it comes out, or do you actually try to figure out where the leak came from?
Nah. You know, my last album leaked like 28 days before it came out and that was kind of devastating. I don’t necessarily know how it happened but I feel that if leaks are somewhat contained — like if your album leaks six or seven days before it’s supposed to come out — I never see it as detrimental or that damaging.

These songs have many philosophical lines, like “jealousy is just love and hate combined.” Are these the type of things that you stow away for a while, just waiting to find a place where they’ll fit?
Yeah, there are little pieces that I collect over the months, whether it be in passing conversation or from reading or movies. I pull from all kinds of references but I make them my own. I try to never directly take a quote verbatim. I try to make it apply to my life or make it work for me. A lot of it is just stuff we think about and talk about amongst each other — like me, 40 [Drake’s collaborator Noah “40” Shebib] and whoever else is in the studio. It just comes from hours of thinking and reflecting on life. I think one of my biggest things is to be quoted. I grew up reading quotes, studying what intelligent people had to say, what wise people had to say, so I think one of my biggest goals in life is just to be a quoted individual, and to be somebody whose words matter.

So you would like to see engraved in stone a line like, “You’re a fine motherf—er, back that ass up.”
[Laughs] Well, I mean, I don’t know if that’s going to be quoted. But there’s obviously moments of messing around, and then you have your profound moments.

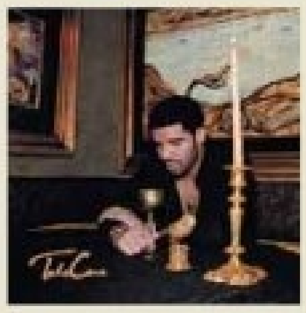
DRAKE ANSWERS A “DEGRASSI” QUESTION

Q&A: The A-team

You certainly have a lot of guest stars on this album. There’s Lil Wayne, Rick Ross, Nicki Minaj, Rihanna and even Stevie Wonder. I was surprised though that you didn’t have Stevie sing. Instead you just had him play his signature harmonica.

▶ I think that the record, the way it was, was done already when he was listening to it. Vocally, we had tracked it out, and me and him have these other plans for a record where we sing together.

Q&A



On this album, you do swing wildly between fun and philosophical.

I think that’s just part of my character and my personality and my music. I always find a balance. There’s elements for everyone in there. It’s much like myself, as a person. It’s neutral and relatable to different groups of people. It’s not necessarily geared to one demographic. It’s more like the balance of, you get your ’hood s—, you get your ignorant s—, you get sexy music, you get passionate moments, you get life moments and you get vulnerable moments. I think that’s what makes my music unique. I find a way to incorporate all those things into one song sometimes — or definitely into one project. METRO/PH

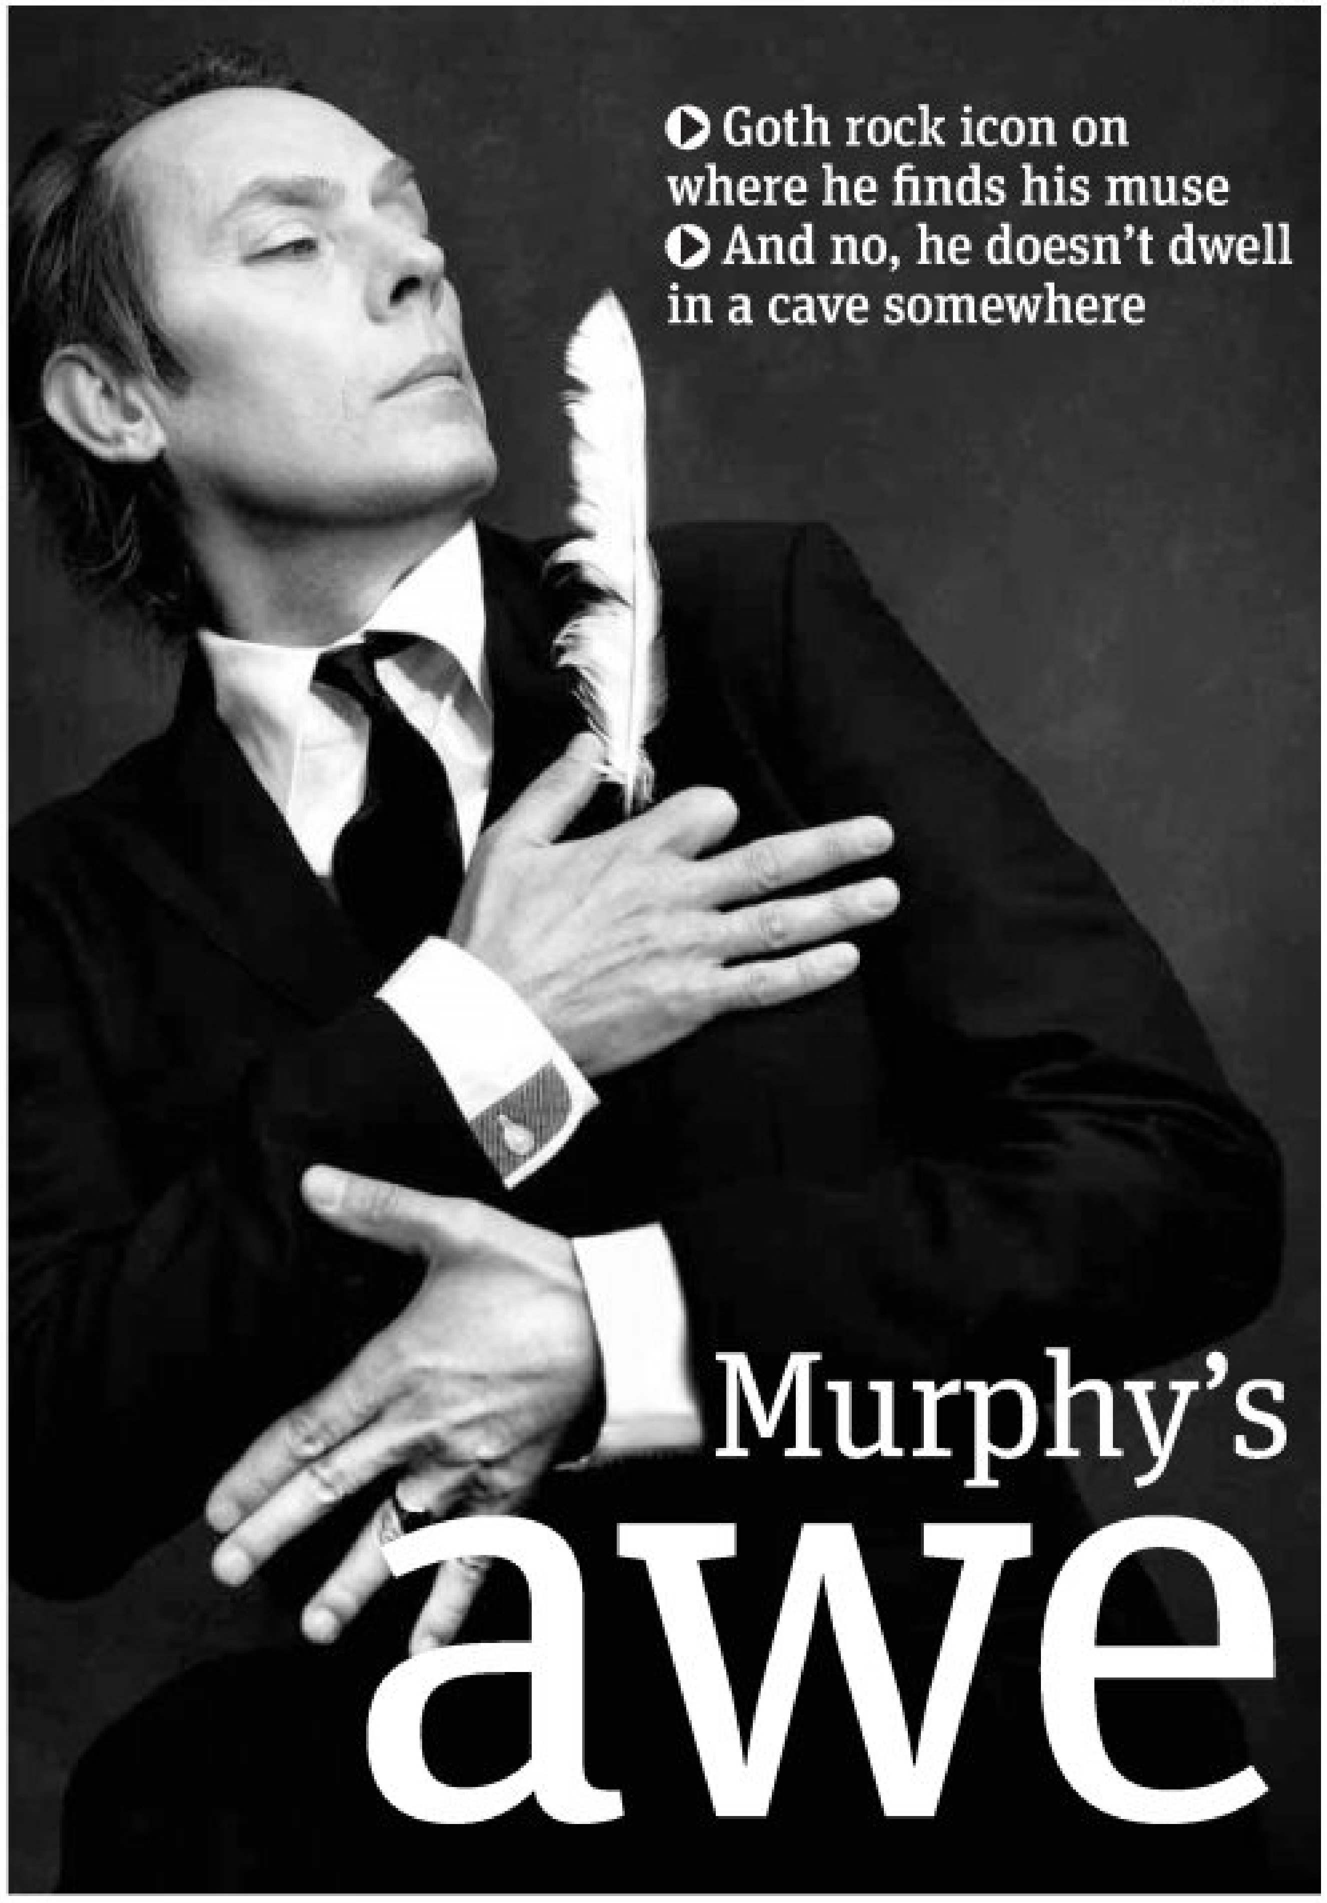
THOMAS TADEUS BAK



- Goth rock icon on where he finds his muse
- And no, he doesn't dwell in a cave somewhere

Murphy's awe

The titles of Peter Murphy's two musical offerings of this year are telling of the singer's contrasting expressions, the abstract and the concrete. He titled his full length album, "Ninth," as it is his ninth solo effort without Bauhaus, one of the first gothic rock groups of the 1970s. Straightforward enough. His more recent EP, however, "The Secret Bees of Ninth" is more esoteric in title and approach. The word "secret" pops up a lot in Murphy's work. This, he says, is with good reason.

"There's always with my work, the unseen oblique undercurrent of, I think you'd call it spirituality," he says in a voice a few shades darker than his usual deep velvety croak, as he is recovering from bronchitis.

"I like to put out words or statements that somehow evoke the idea instead of laying it out with actual words, it's a more poetic thing in that sense," he says. "I try to communicate what the muses were, the inspirations and ideas going around my head."

As he considers, he steers his sentiment more towards the concrete.

"It is quite a process but I don't want people to think it's an intellectual sort or purposefully mysterious thing or approach," he says. "I don't have poetry books or a cave anywhere."

Spit ye rosebuds while ye may

"I Spit Roses" is one of the strongest songs on "Ninth." Its title comes from an incident that has been widely cited as the breaking point for Bauhaus when the band reunited a few years ago. Instead of continuing an argument, Murphy gathered a nearby bouquet and, well, consider the title. Have his ex-bandmates reacted?

"No, the reaction happened when they were spat upon," Murphy laughs. "They know what happened. They were there. They didn't have to react."

Recipe for metal

When Mastodon combine mythology, dinosaurs and intricate album artwork, it's a perfect mix ‘We're all still like kids,' says singer

CINDY FREY

▶ Kelliher of Mastodon is on the far right. Inset, the "mythology and dinosaurs and big creatures" he talks about are all in one on the cover.

If there's one thing about heavy metal that's often overlooked, it's that the music is as theatrically intense as it is sonically relentless. Take Mastodon, who returned this fall with "The Hunter" — a proper follow-up to the Atlanta metalheads' critically acclaimed "Crack the Skye." Not only does "The Hunter" include a download code for a nifty 3-D, interactive "Augmented Reality Experience" to play with, but the intricate cover also captures Mastodon's rich, mythology-themed music.

"You have to make a good representation of what's on the inside on the outside," co-guitarist and singer Bill Kelliher says. "We're all fans of mythology and dinosaurs and big creatures — the unknown and weird things. All the things that 14-year-old boys are interested in."

Kelliher pauses, realizing that he just equated Mastodon with juveniles. He laughs: "We're all still like kids in that way."

As an actual kid growing up in Rochester, N.Y., Kelliher would browse record stores — and more often than not, it was an album cover that got him hooked before the music.

"I'd pick up the Agnostic Front records, or Iron Maiden's, and think, ‘Wow, this must be awesome,'" he recalls. "You look at Slayer's ‘Reign In Blood' and think, ‘Wow, this is sick!'"

Indeed, we do.

"That's what drew me in to listening to Iron Maiden or Slayer. It piques your curiosity. If there's a dumb photo of the band on the cover you think, ‘What is this crap?' That's not interesting to me."

On the ‘Hunt'

Artwork aside, it's the music that galvanized critics to high praise when "The Hunter" emerged.

"We're doing the best we can," says Kelliher. "We had a month before we left for a European tour. I didn't think we were ready to go into the studio, but lo and behold, all of a sudden we had this amazing f—ing record. It was an outpouring of creativity."

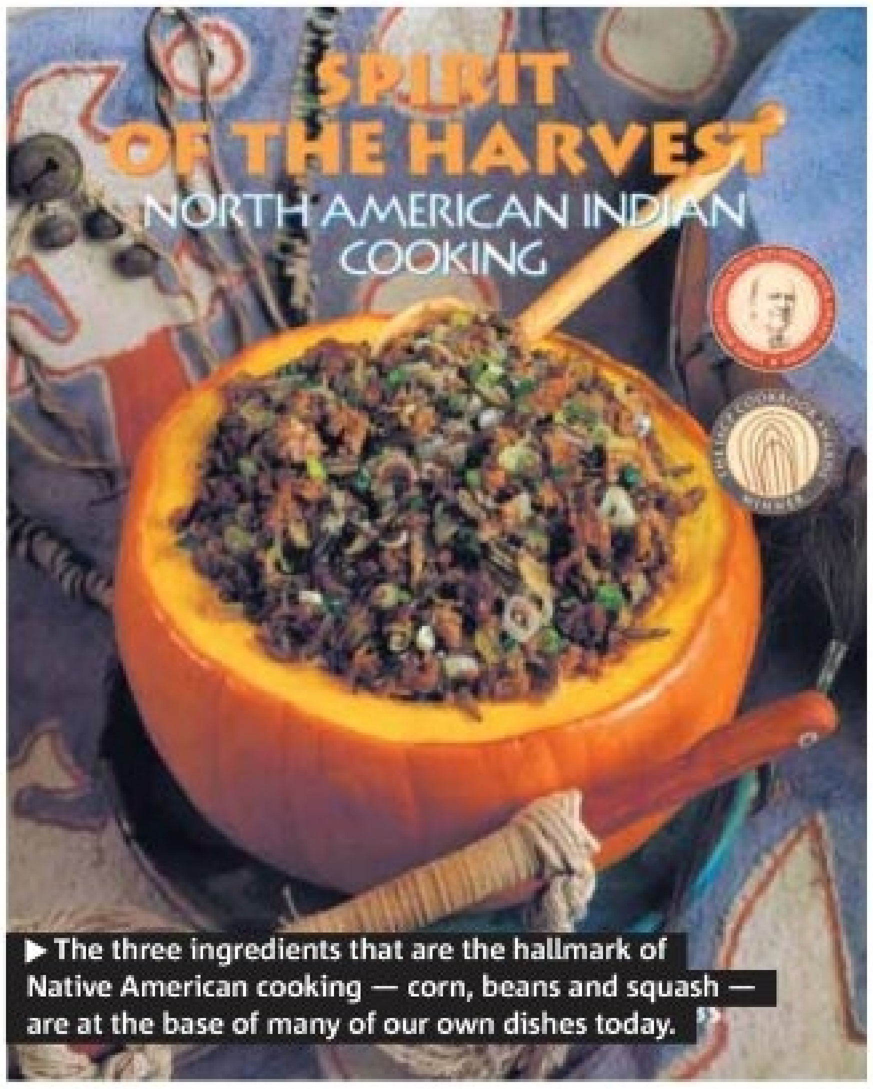
Revisiting the original Thanksgiving meal

▶ When you carve the bird next week, don't forget to thank the Native Americans ▶ Our nation's first people knew good eats



▶ The three ingredients that are the hallmark of Native American cooking — corn, beans and squash — are at the base of many of our own dishes today.

> "Some 70 percent of the foods eaten in the world today originated in the Americas. Anyone who's interested in food is interested in American Indian food."
> COX

This year, let's give it up for the originators of our favorite meal of the year: the Native Americans. "Most all of the foods that we associate with Thanksgiving are Native American foods," says Beverly Cox, the co-author of the recently-reissued "Spirit of the Harvest: North American Indian Cooking." "Sweet potatoes, corn (like cornbread stuffing), the turkey (a native animal to the Americas), cranberries, green beans, pumpkin pie — pumpkins originated in the Americas as well — virtually our whole dinner came from the Indians."

And while we celebrate Thanksgiving just once a year, in earlier times, giving thanks was a regular occurrence.

"Thanksgiving ceremonies, for most Native American tribes, were very much a part of their lives," she continues. "There were Thanksgiving ceremonies periodically throughout the year to punctuate the different harvests. There would be a Thanksgiving ceremony for the first buffalo, or the first salmon that were caught — they'd treat it with a great ceremony to thank the salmon for giving themselves to feed the people."

So before you stuff your face this year, we recommend giving thanks to the Native Americans for helping your mom come up with that awesome pie.

Our Aim is to Beat Most Offers!

We Strive to Beat All Legitimate Written Offers
Before Bringing your items to us, take them to other dealers. Have them give you legitimate offers in writing. Then bring your jewelry and written offers to one of our locations. Although no one can guarantee with certainty they are paying the highest price for an article at any particular time, we will strive to beat most legitimate written offers.

Why We Can Usually Pay More Than Other Dealers
Most jewelers and dealers specialize in few items and focus on newer looking items to resell. Because they are unfamiliar with many other items including vintage jewelry, old watches, coins, flatware, etc. they tend to offer very low prices because these items are not readily salable for them. Our company has many specialized buyers for the various classifications of items that we purchase, therefore we can usually pay more.

A Note Regarding the Up To Prices listed in this Ad
The condition and rarity of an item determines its price. If an item is in excellent condition and very rare it might be worth the up to price, or even more. However, if an item is in poor condition, the value will be lower. For example, a 1927 S Quarter could be worth $7,000 in new condition or less than $20 in poor condition. The up to price reflects items of exceptional quality and rarity. Although it is unlikely you will have these items due to their extreme rarity, feel free to bring whatever items you may have and we will evaluate them free of charge.

Customer Satisfaction
Most of our business comes from satisfied customers and referrals which includes their friends and families. Our showrooms are safe and private. Our staff is courteous and professional and we strive as a company to make your selling experience a pleasant one.

Why You Should Sell Now!

The Economy & Market Value
The recent downturn of our economy during the last three years has caused gold and other precious metal prices to soar to the highest levels of all time. This is the reason this is best time to sell before prices drop.

Get Cash Immediately
Our professional staff will provide you with a speedy evaluation and make all payments in cash.

No Charge
We do not charge for our consultations. Find out how much cash your unwanted items will put in your pocket. Many customers have been surprised and delighted by the amount of money they received.

Safe, Secure & Friendly
Our showrooms are safe and private. Our staff is courteous and professional and we strive as a company to make your selling experience a pleasant one.

Licensed, Bonded & Insured
We are licensed, bonded and insured in all cities and towns in which we conduct business.

Help the Environment
Using recycled precious metals for jewelry is an important way for jewelers to source precious metals more responsibly. Precious metals that have already been used in some way, including "vintage," "renewed," or "reclaimed" metals from jewelry and electronics, are not directly implicated in the destructive impacts of mining. They do not share responsibility for the impacts of mining in the same way that newly mined gold does.

Inside the mind of Woody Allen

Only one filmmaker has had the privilege of giving the legendary director the documentary treatment
We quizzed Robert Weide on how he made it happen

The first installment of "Woody Allen: A Documentary" airs Sunday at 9 p.m. on PBS.

At 76, director Woody Allen is still reaching new heights in his 42 years as a filmmaker. With a staggering 47 films under his belt, Allen could easily be installed in the Mt. Rushmore of American filmmakers alongside Martin Scorsese, Steven Spielberg and Oliver Stone. But until now, Allen has never allowed a documentary to be made about his work. The man who finally convinced him was Robert Weide. As Allen's most recent release, "Midnight in Paris" becomes his biggest box office success, PBS airs "Woody Allen: A Documentary" on "American Masters." Metro asked Weide how he got Allen to relent.

Woody Allen has famously never let a film be made about him. How did you do it?
His reluctance to this kind of thing over the years has not been based so much on his fear that somebody would do something outside of his control. I think his problem with it has always been his self-deprecating streak, where he just doesn't understand how anyone would be interested in doing a documentary on him or why anyone would be interested in watching it.

He and I actually had a $10 bet, which I need to collect on. When he met me, I could never get [this film] financed. And then once I did, his thing was, "No one's going to put this on the air." Of course, "American Masters" jumped at it. Now his thing is, "Well, no one's going to watch it."

His romantic relationships with Diane Keaton and Mia Farrow are epic in the public consciousness. Did you have a hard time getting as much info as you wanted from them?
No. That stuff is of minimal interest to me. We do hear a little bit about him and Diane Keaton and Keaton talks about how she had a crush on him right from the beginning. Then with Mia he talks about the genesis of the relationship. Then I deal with what lead to their breakup. ... But I covered that to the extent that I had to because it is part of his narrative. I tried to deal with it honestly and give the information that I thought would cover it.

Q&A

Because his films are so personal, Woody Allen fans may feel they know him. What will this documentary reveal that we didn't know?

This guy has a work ethic like nobody else I've seen. By the time one film comes out, he's already shooting the next film. I tried to round out the picture as much as I can. It's not a psychological study; but when you look at the arc of his life and his career, I think it puts a few things into perspective.

Payne's slow-burning ramble

▶ Don't mess with these two: Playing father and daughter, George Clooney and Shailene Woodley are on a serious fact-finding mission.

▶ 'The Descendants' is rich in storytelling and character but doesn't move fast enough to keep things exciting ▶ For some, though, that's a winning combination

'The Descendants'
Director: Alexander Payne
Cast: George Clooney, Matthew Lillard, Beau Bridges
Rating: R Grade: ❶❷❸④⑤

The director of "Sideways" and "Election" is not one for the predictable story arc. While his films don't exactly ramble, there's never any clue as to where the story is going. Some people love that. But the lifelike nature of that approach can take all the fun out of watching it. Payne relies on the richness of the story to keep your interest. That doesn't always work.

In "The Descendants," George Clooney plays a Hawaiian land baron coping with a wife on life support and two young girls he's never really had to help raise. As he tries to keep the family functioning, he finds out some harsh truths about the secret life his wife had been living. Also, he's in the midst of a heated family debate about selling virgin property to a rich hotel developer.

It's great to see Clooney in a schlubby dad role and, as usual, he brings on the charm. But the supporting young actresses who play his daughters, Shailene Woodley and Amara Miller, sometimes outshine him in comedic moments, which is great to see.

Funny and touching, but occasionally plodding and aimless, this film's treasures often outweigh its troubles. Just don't expect to be on the edge of your seat.

Epic family entertainment

"Happy Feet Two"
Director: George Miller
Cast: Elijah Wood, Robin Williams, Sofia Vergara
Rating: PG Grade: ❶❷❸❹⑤

The original "Happy Feet" and its sequel don't look or feel like other movies for kids. Director George "Mad Max" Miller is a maximalist director who opens up the usual kid-flick palette with swooping cameras, wide-open vistas and beautifully effective 3-D. Featuring a cast of thousands — animated penguins as far as the eye can see and "krillions" of krill — "Happy Feet Two" is made on a scale that would make Cecil B. DeMille proud.

It's also a step above most kids movies. Joyful and beautiful to look at, it has more to say about life, love and the pursuit of happiness than most movies aimed at adults.

Eternal vampire love

“The Twilight Saga: Breaking Dawn - Part 1”
Director: Bill Condon
Cast: Kristen Stewart, Robert Pattinson, Taylor Lautner
Rating: PG-13
Grade: ❶❷③④⑤

Is there really any point to reading a review of a “Twilight” movie? Fans will see it no matter what. Everyone else could care less. Much like other book adaptations like, say, the “Harry Potter” or “The Lord of the Rings” franchises, it’s not the second or third installment that gets you hooked. The first is the clincher.

And so it’s fitting that “Breaking Dawn - Part 1” is fully loaded with as many cheap special effects and unintentionally hilarious melodramatic moments as the very first film and the other two that followed it. It’s like director Bill Condon wants to guarantee us crappy quality, just to keep it consistent.

And for that, the fans will be grateful. There’s a whole spectrum of Twihards — from those who relish the camp factor to others who are sincerely dying for that headboard-breaking scene (forbidden vampire sex!). There’s no reason to believe they won’t all embrace this one for its awe-inspiring strangeness.

ANDREW COOPER

▶ Chess on your honeymoon? Really? These two are so boring.

Bella Swan (Kristen Stewart) is again in peril when after her wedding to vampire Edward Cullen (Robert Pattinson), she finds herself almost instantly pregnant. Since this baby is a special vampire-human hybrid, it’s destroying her from the inside so that eventually, she begins to resemble the Crypt Keeper. Then there’s wolf-shifter Jacob Black (Taylor Lautner) who must fend off the rest of his pack, who believe the hybrid baby is a threat to them. Same stuff, different multimillion dollar-earning movie.

There are elements to this story which are too ridiculous to comprehend. There’s a teen-baby love connection, there’s wolves fighting each other in their brains, there’s the fact that these crazy kids have to get married at 18 to begin with. Bella moves out of her dad’s house so that she can move in with her new husband in his family’s house? At least Stephenie Meyer was well ahead of “recession-chic” there.

Lowlights

So-awful-it’s-amazing moments in “Breaking Dawn - Part 1”:

▶ The CGI wolfpack mind-argue over Bella’s weird baby.

▶ Edward’s heartfelt, near-tears description of the night he first has sex with Bella being “the best night of my existence.” Don’t worry, he doesn’t actually call it sex. This is “Twilight,” you remember.

▶ When Jasper solemnly utters the word “probably” — just trust us. At our screening the entire theater was cracking up.

▶ A violent bloody birth scene, the end of which results in one lone streak of blood across a hospital johnny.

interview

Robert Pattinson

▶ We met 'Twilight' stars Robert Pattinson and Ashley Greene and will never wash our tape recorder again ▶ Here's four facts we learned

1) PATTINSON LOVES JUNK FOOD

In "The Twilight Saga: Breaking Dawn - Part 1," the fourth in the series, newlyweds Edward (Robert Pattinson) and Bella (Kristen Stewart) finally go all the way. In preparation for the stripped-down honeymoon scene, Pattinson, 25, put in four months of solid work outs.

"Because I very rarely exercise and really don't like going to the gym, I had to make it extreme," he says. "I had to cut out beer and cut out junk food, which is basically my entire life, and I had to replace that with going to the gym and working out, basically all day, every day. I went to the gym pretty much at four in the morning and worked out for two hours and then went to work and then ran. It was absolutely exhausting."

"I very rarely exercise and really don't like going to the gym." PATTINSON

2) GREENE GETS DRAMATIC

His co-star Ashley Greene, 24, who plays Edward's sister Alice, also shows a new side in the movie, albeit a more emotional one. As the Cullens' especially talented psychic, Alice is haunted by frightening premonitions.

"You will see Alice being emotionally tortured and a little tormented inside. She wants to protect and support Bella and the two emotions are in conflict. That was one of the great things of having a saga that gives you [time] to develop your character," she says.

GETTY IMAGES

Ashley Greene and Robert Pattinson

3) THE BIRTHING SCENE WAS HORRIFIC

In this installment — spoiler alert! — Bella becomes pregnant and the baby is half vampire. According to Pattinson and Greene, the birth scene was one of the most memorable during the movie shoot.

"The director Bill Condon made some really bloody horror movies early on in his career and we shot it like a straight horror scene," says Pattinson. "I saw one cut, and if you had added some other music and other sound effects you wouldn't want to watch the screen. They could definitely do a version of this movie for adults only."

Greene remembers the day as one of the most hysterical.

"We were nervous and didn't know how to pull this off. It was so intense. You can't relate to a baby that is destroying its mother. It translates much better on film and it looks good, but when we were filming it nobody knew what was happening!"

Quoted

4) ROBERT SINGS!

"I'm not making a record. ... I record stuff all the time but have no intention to release it. People hate actors who release music so much that the majority of people would hate it just because it exists. It's too personal for me to dirty it with people's judgement."

PATTINSON, DENYING RUMORS THAT HE IS GOING TO RELEASE A RECORD

Oh come on, RPatz! How can you neglect the legions of Twihards who would buy three copies each of you doing bird calls if that's what you felt like doing? We'll give the man some time and maybe he'll come around.

THE WORD

Metro's Dorothy Robinson shares her take on the world of gossip @dorothyatmetro dorothy.robinson@metro.us

The feed ...

On Fridays, Dorothy will post the best tweets she received during the week. You can always let her know what you think — good or bad — at @dorothyatmetro.

Ooh la la! "Twilight!" Sexiest Man Alive! Was this a week for smut or what? And readers let me hear it, from my secret Twihard followers to those who were anti-Brad for Sexiest Man Alive (that's Cooper, not Pitt we're talking about). Oh, and @Sn3ak3r_Fr3ak3r wants The Word to move on from Joan Rivers' tweets (I tend to agree!).

▶ @nycpiscesgirl I'd rather wait until after all the twihards have seen it. I dont like watching sex scenes when kids are in the room.

▶ @alizepassion4u definitely want to see breaking dawn even though I'm twilighed out!

▶ @jopoklar Not just no but h-ll, no.

▶ @KeishaHolder Of course... Huge Twihard!!!

▶ @glory_anne No, but I AM going to see Tower Heist. Not sure if that's better or worse.

▶ @v0xtheriot matt bomer is the #sexiestmanalive

▶ @Sh-tMollzSays I am going to ignore the current titleholder & elect Leonardo Dicaprio in my mind #SexiestManAlive

▶ @xanderall You can't ask a fella to tell you how sexy another man is.

▶ @Sn3ak3r_Fr3ak3r dear @dorothyatmetro could you follow some new celebrities .. I'm tired of reading what @Joan_Rivers tweets .. sincerely, a Metro reader

Talking points

Cavallari takes on Kardashians

Oh, snap! I've never been a super fan of Kristin Cavallari as, really, I'm not too sure what there is to be impressed by. But I might have a change of heart as she totally called out the Kardashians on "The Billy Bush Show" on Wednesday.

Here's the backstory: Life & Style is running a story that Scott Disick, the boyfriend and baby daddy of Kourtney Kardashian, fooled around with Cavallari before hooking up with Kourtney. Kristin says this is "100 percent not true" and accused the Kardashians for making news where there is none. (The Kardashians flaming gossip rumors? Never!) "What convenient timing for them. With their show premiering next week and with everything that's going on for Kim, I feel like they're trying to take the heat off her," she told Bush. "When there's a big story like that, they always call you and ask if you want to comment and clearly none of them denied it, so it's very — it's really disrespectful to me. ... I'm in a committed relationship. It's disrespectful to me and Jay [Cutler] and I think it just says a lot about their character."

Um, everything that has happened in the past year with the Kardhasians says a lot about their character, don't you think?

Cavallari tells it like it is.

It's official: Moore and Kutcher are divorcing

The weeks and weeks of "are they or aren't they" gossip are over: Demi Moore and Ashton Kutcher are getting a divorce. "It is with great sadness and a heavy heart that I have decided to end my six-year marriage to Ashton," Moore said in statement released by her publicist today. "As a woman, a mother and a wife there are certain values and vows that I hold sacred, and it is in this spirit that I have chosen to move forward with my life. This is a trying time for me and my family, and so I would ask for the same compassion and privacy that you would give to anyone going through a similar situation." This comes after reports that Moore, 49, and Kutcher, 33, escaped to the Caribbean, hiding out at Bruce Willis' Turks and Caicos home after the uproar over Kutcher's Twitter gaffe, in which he stood up for Penn State football coach Joe Paterno, according to Us Weekly. "They had to get away. Ashton's tweeting [about Penn State] was the last straw," a source says. Of course, the retreat also gave the couple a chance to address their marital difficulties stemming from Kutcher's infidelity. "Things have been very strained," the source adds, "[but] they're trying to figure things out." And figure it out they did. How sad.

Martha Stewart doesn't freak out about Christmas

While the rest of world plans on upping their Xanax intake to handle the stress of the holidays, Martha Stewart doesn't even break a sweat. But, really though, was there ever any doubt?

While working the red carpet on Wednesday night at the Fourth Annual Martha Stewart Center for Living at Mount Sinai Gala, which honored music impresario Clive Davis, the domestic diva was all smiles and totally at ease while discussing her plans for the holidays.

She said the thing she's most excited about this year is "decorating the whole house for the new grandchild" (granddaughter Jude was born via gestational carrier in March).

And as for presents? Well, she makes them herself. (Again: Of course she does. She is Martha Stewart; she doesn't do Wal-Mart.) "I like making things. I like giving things that I've made. I actually love receiving handmade gifts."

But reporters on the red carpet did catch Stewart with her guard down just once, when they asked her what she's giving Jude for Christmas. "I don't know, I haven't thought about it yet," she said. "She has everything already."

Mo' Yeater problems

Justin Bieber's problems might not be going away so fast, as reports have surfaced that Mariah Yeater is not actually dropping her paternity suit, having found new lawyers to represent her. But first she needs to do some cleanup work. TMZ has published text messages Yeater sent to a friend suggesting her baby's father is someone other than Bieber. "pleeeease ERASE ALL MESSAGES from my mom where she says Tristyn is Robbies Son," one message reads, while a second says: "Ill kick u when we get paid im trusting you pleeeease."

Her "friends" are fiscally savvy; they realized TMZ would pay for text messages before Yeater could.

Sorry, Occupy. This week belonged to 'Twilight'

While some people in tents were being kicked out of them, others were setting them up — and these vampire lovers were allowed to stay put. Until the reason they were all there — "Twilight Saga: Breaking Dawn - Part 1" — actually opened, that is. Here is the vamp-crazed madness that happened this week surrounding every Twihard's most anticipated film of the year.

1. While Occupy camps across the country were being torn down, a new camp was set up on Sunday in Los Angeles — this time by Twilight fans who waited in line for the premiere.

2. At the U.K. premiere on Wednesday, fans were all smiles as they tried to take a photo with star Robert Pattinson.

3. On Sunday, this "Team Edward" fan was seen at the Nokia Theatre in Los Angeles, Calif., waiting to get in line for the premiere of the movie, which happened Friday.

4. The ultimate "Team Edward" fan arrived at the Los Angeles premiere in a wedding dress, all ready to marry the love of her life — Robert Pattinson. Well, make that his cut-out.

5. At the same event, Edward Cullen fanatics displayed a "Great Wall of Rob."

6. Hordes of fans at the U.K. premiere in London on Wednesday were also delighted as they snapped photos with Taylor Lautner.

7. Kristen Stewart, in a black Roberto Cavalli gown, signed autographs at the UK premiere as well.

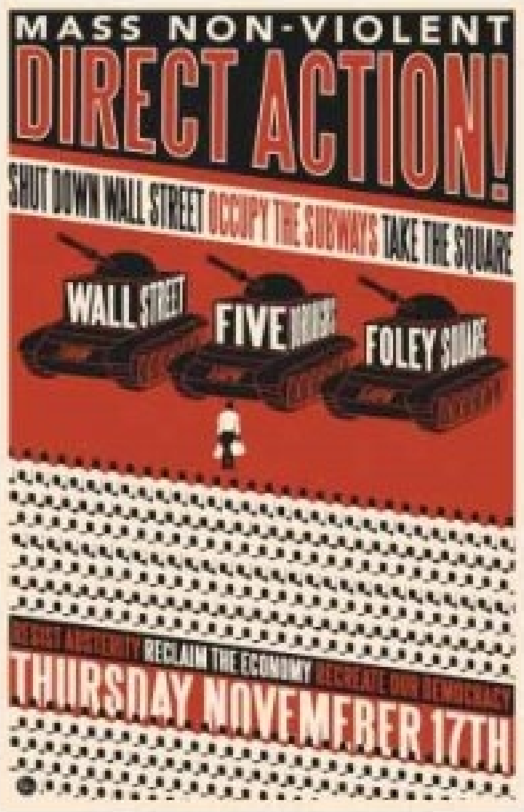
OCCUPY HEARTS AND MINDS

The week that was: Opinion



According to recent opinion polls, most Americans agree that financial criminals on Wall Street and corrupt politicians in Washington have conspired to enrich an already wealthy minority at the expense of the working classes. But as the Occupy movement hits its second month, many still view protesters in negative terms, using words like "lazy," "ignorant" and "smelly." As the Daily News reports: "Polling shows the public supports the message of the Occupy Wall Street movement even if people have reservations about the encampments themselves." What gives?

Sadly, a lot of good people see protesters as unwashed hippie remnants of the '60s counter-culture revolution. Perception is everything: It hardly matters that someone willing to wake up before sunrise and march for 12 hours in the name of economic justice couldn't reasonably be considered lazy. People form narratives in their minds and then fit the world into those preconceived boxes.

For the Occupy movement to succeed in effecting real change in this country — and it's in the best interests of the 99 percent for this to happen, regardless of their political affiliation — supporters must bridge this gap. We all have a stake in solving the money-in-politics problem whether or not we appreciate the appearance — or smell — of our economic allies. Revolution makes for strange bedfellows; let's get together before we're all screwed.

Horoscope

♏ Scorpio Oct. 24-Nov. 22. Someone you meet by accident will intrigue you today. After some talking, you might be looking at a new best pal. Ease into this friendship, and remember to keep an open mind.

♐ Sagittarius Nov. 23-Dec. 21. It'll be that special way you do something that has several people wanting to take a look at your work today. One person might be someone whose interest you've been anxious to get.

♑ Capricorn Dec. 22-Jan. 19. You're much more popular with your contemporaries than you may think. Today this fact might become clear when several people start clamoring for your attention.

♒ Aquarius Jan. 20-Feb. 19. Don't waste your time looking to others to make the social arrangements today, because they're all waiting for you to do so. Think of a place or something to do that everyone will enjoy.

♓ Pisces Feb. 20-March 20. You could be called upon at home today to be a mediator. Fortunately for them, you'll know exactly how to reach an agreement that everyone will like.

♈ Aries March 21-April 19. Chances are you have a few bucks left for having a little fun. This might be an excellent evening to go out on the town with friends.

♉ Taurus April 20-May 20. Unless you find a way to break out of your shell today, you're going to end up being more restless than you ever figured you'd be.

♊ Gemini May 21-June 20. The day in general should be a favorable one, with you even reaping some kind of benefit from a least expected source. Make the most of whatever opportunities come along.

♋ Cancer June 21-July 22. It's to your advantage to get out and about today, especially if you're unattached and looking to find a special someone. You could find the right group that'll have what you're looking for.

♌ Leo July 23-Aug. 22. Waking up happy is the key to being in tune with the day. Those of you looking for someone special might even find that person today. Smile, and the world smiles with you.

♍ Virgo Aug. 23-Sept. 22. Good news from an unexpected venue might be trying to get through to you. If you're out and about today, check in from time to time to see if anybody has been trying to reach you.

♎ Libra Sept. 23-Oct. 23. Two friends who don't know each other might be trying to reach you today. Respond to both because each will have his or her own special reason for wanting to touch base with you.

Niners face first 'chalk' test

The 49ers have an 8-1 record. Big deal. At least one or two teams get off to a start like that every year. The real feat Jim Harbaugh's team has accomplished is racing out to a 8-0-1 record against the spread.

This is the longest unbeaten ATS streak to start a season since 1980, according to Covers.com. That's because the Niners don't play the style that inflates lines. They are a run-heavy, defensive-oriented team. That's not the style people bet on. So lines stay low and the Niners cover.

However, the public bettors might be coming around. San Fran is favored by 10 at home against the Cardinals on Sunday, the most chalk they've had to eat all year. Still, around 60 percent of public bettors are backing the Niners.

Vick injury could force Eagles' hand

Quarterback's broken ribs may force pass-happy Reid to turn to McCoy
Mornhinweg laments on last week's ratio
Young likely to get start

©ETTY IMAGES

▶ With Vick likely out this week, the Eagles should put the game in LeSean McCoy's hands.

Mike Vick was clearly in the minority last week, when he told reporters that "Lord willing, maybe we can end up 10-6."

But, after missing practice Wednesday and Thursday, it's looking like that unenviable task will fall on the broad shoulders of Vince Young. While Andy Reid hasn't anointed Young as Sunday's starter, he has been taking the bulk of the first-team reps in practice.

"It's not about me. I want to go out there and lead the guys to a victory," Young said.

And victories have been hard to come by. With a 3-6 record — and constant rumors surrounding Reid's job security — the Eagles know they must run the table for any shot at the postseason. In fact, it might put added pressure on Vick to strap on the Superman cape and go out there with broken ribs.

It certainly wouldn't be the first time for Vick, who played in Week 3, after suffering a concussion the previous week.

"He's a tough man and I'm always optimistic with him," offensive coordinator Marty Mornhinweg said. "He's doing everything possible to get ready for the next game both in the training room as well as in the classroom."

Whether it's Vick or Young under center, the game plan should be similar: Hand the ball to LeSean McCoy. The Eagles back leads the NFC with 906 rushing yards, yet inexplicably saw just 14 touches in last week's loss to Arizona. Even Mornhinweg admitted that the team could have leaned more heavily on McCoy.

"They were playing us with a bunch of one-on-ones and there were plenty of opportunities there," Mornhinweg said. "I don't want to act a little defensive or anything, but yeah we had some possibilities there. We could have gone to him a couple more times."

The cold, hard football facts

A look at this weekend's NFL action through the eyes of the football stat experts at coldhardfootballfacts.com.

Curse of Doug Flutie strikes!

Buffalo Bills coach Wade Phillips benched QB Doug Flutie before the 1999 playoffs, despite the fact he had gone 10-5. The Flutieless Bills then lost to Tennessee thanks to the controversial "Music City Miracle." The Bills have never returned to the playoffs. And any team that has employed Phillips since then has suffered incredible misfortune. The Houston Texans, where Phillips is the defensive coordinator, is the latest victim of the Curse of Flutie.

▶ Houston was enjoying the greatest season in its history: a franchise-best 7-3 record, on pace for its first playoff appearance and the AFC's No. 1 seed, and the top scoring differential in the AFC (+107), a reliable indicator of Super Bowl potential. But on Monday we learned that the team had lost Pro Bowl-caliber QB Matt Schaub for the season. Some call it coincidence. We call it another triumph for the dreaded Curse of Flutie.

FFchamps.com's 'Start and Sit'

▶ Start him
SEA RB Marshawn Lynch
He averages 122 yards per game over last two weeks; St. Louis defense allows NFL-worst 150 yards per game and is No. 29 with 5.1 yards per rush attempt.

▶ Sit him
ARZ RB Beanie Wells
Cardinals back averages just 55 yards per game in last three; San Francisco is No. 1 in run defense (73.2 yards per game).

WEEKEND FOOTBALL BETTING GUIDE

BILLS 5-4 at DOLPHINS 2-7

SUNDAY, 1 P.M.

Line: Dolphins -2 (O/U 43)
The Scoop: Everyone is jumping off the Bills bandwagon. This is still the Miami Dolphins people.
Pick: Bills

BENGALS 6-3 at RAVENS 6-3

SUNDAY, 1 P.M.

Line: Ravens -7 (O/U 40.5)
The Scoop: The public is also getting off Cincy. But they are 7-2 ATS this year and are getting a full score.
Pick: Bengals

JAGUARS 3-6 at BROWNS 3-6

SUNDAY, 1 P.M.

Line: Jaguars -1 (O/U 34)
The Scoop: Browns are winless ATS (0-3-2) in their last five games. Both teams stink, but the Jags do less.
Pick: Jaguars

RAIDERS 5-4 at VIKINGS 2-7

SUNDAY, 1 P.M.

Line: Raiders -1 (O/U 45.5)
The Scoop: Oakland is 0-2-1 ATS in the last three games they have been favorites.
Pick: Vikings

PANTHERS 2-7 at LIONS 6-3

SUNDAY, 1 P.M.

Line: Lions -7 (O/U 47.5)
The Scoop: We like the Lions to bounce back at home.
Pick: Lions

BUCS 4-5 at PACKERS 9-0

SUNDAY, 1 P.M.

Line: Packers -14 (O/U 48.5)
The Scoop: Tampa is 1-5 ATS in their last six games. The Packers will stumble soon, but not here.
Pick: Packers

COWBOYS 5-4 at REDSKINS 3-6

SUNDAY, 1 P.M.

Line: Cowboys -8 (O/U 41.5)
The Scoop: Washington is 0-5 ATS in their last five and it's not like they've been favored then either.
Pick: Cowboys

CARDINALS 3-6 at 49ERS 8-1

SUNDAY, 4:05 P.M.

Line: 49ers -10 (O/U 41)
The Scoop: Might as well stick with the Niners until they lose ATS (8-0-1 so far).
Pick: 49ers

SEAHAWKS 3-6 at RAMS 2-7

SUNDAY, 4:05 P.M.

Line: Rams -1 (O/U 39)
The Scoop: Seattle regularly surprises ATS, as they now stand 5-3-1 on the season.
Pick: Seahawks

TITANS 5-4 at FALCONS 5-4

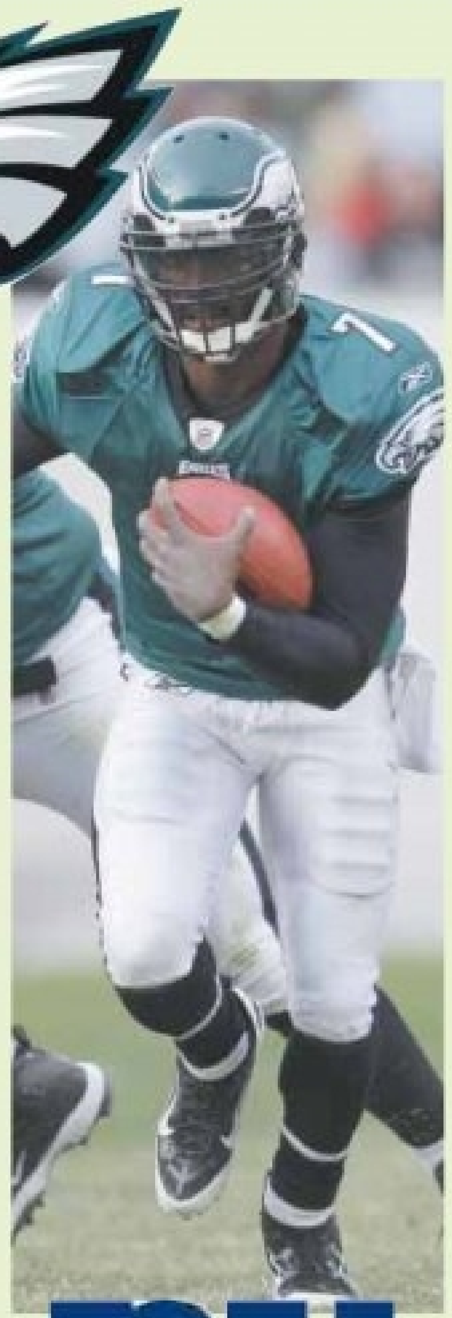
SUNDAY, 4:15 P.M.

Line: Falcons -7 (O/U 44)
The Scoop: The Falcons are simply the better team.
Pick: Falcons

Eagles vs. Giants (8:20 Sunday)



LINE: Giants -4.5
(O/U 46.5)

KEY INJURIES: QB Mike Vick (ribs) questionable. WR Jeremy Maclin (shoulder) questionable. S Nate Allen (concussion) probable. LB Michael Boley (hamstring) questionable. RB Ahmad Bradshaw (foot) questionable.
THE SCOOP: We would love to break down the spreads and what they mean for this game, but that would be all dependent on who plays quarterback. If the line isn't off-the-board you will see the Giants as a small favorite. It appears like Mike Vick won't play with two fractured ribs, but we don't know for sure. If Vick doesn't play you have to like the Giants here, at home, against a division rival they would love to put down for the season.
PICK: Giants

CHARGERS 4-5 at BEARS 6-3

SUNDAY, 4:15 P.M.

Line: Bears -4 (O/U 45)
The Scoop: The Chargers have been quite the enigma this season — even more than usual. While the Bears have been on an unbelievable roll. The history isn't good for the Bolts either. They are 2-9 ATS in their last 11, 1-5 in their last six on the road and 1-4 in their last five againt the Bears.
Pick: Bears

CHIEFS 4-5 at PATRIOTS 6-3

MONDAY, 8:30 P.M.

Line: Patriots -14.5 (O/U 46.5)
The Scoop: Talk about a big spread. Generally our feeling is you always should go with a team that is getting more than two touchdowns. The NFL just isn't a blow-out league like you get in college. Then again, usually your starting quarterback isn't Tyler Palko. The Pats really should roll in this one.
Pick: Patriots

OK. STATE NO. 2, 10-0 at IOWA ST. 5-4

FRIDAY, 8 P.M.

Line: Oklahoma State -28
The Scoop: The Cowboys have had more than 2 TD spreads three weeks in a row and covered every time.
Pick: Oklahoma State

WISCONSIN NO. 15, 8-2 at ILLINOIS 6-4

SATURDAY, NOON

Line: Wisconsin -15
The Scoop: Illinois is just 2-5 ATS in their last seven games after starting 2-1 against lesser competition.
Pick: Wisconsin

NEBRASKA NO. 17, 8-2 at MICHIGAN NO. 20, 8-2

SATURDAY, NOON

Line: Michigan -3.5
The Scoop: Nebraska is just 3-6-1 ATS this season, despite their overall impressive record.
Pick: Michigan

CLEMSON NO. 7, 9-1 at NC STATE 5-5

SATURDAY, 3:30 P.M.

Line: Clemson -8
The Scoop: Clemson is 7-3 ATS this season. The Wolfpack is 3-6-1. Why is Clemson only giving 8?
Pick: Clemson

PENN ST NO. 21, 8-2 at OHIO ST 6-4

SATURDAY, 3:30 P.M.

Line: Ohio State -7
The Scoop: The Lions are 2-9-1 ATS in their last 12. And, well, you know.
Pick: Ohio State

CINCINNATI 7-2 at RUTGERS 7-3

SATURDAY, NOON

Line: Cincinnati -3
The Scoop: Rutgers is 1-4 ATS in their last five against Cincy, plus they've struggled in conference.
Pick: Cincinnati

MISS. ST. 5-5 at ARKANSAS NO. 6, 9-1

SATURDAY, 6 P.M.

Line: Arkansas -13.5
The Scoop: The Razorbacks have struggled on the road ATS. Not at home. They've covered three straight.
Pick: Arkansas

BC 3-7 at ND NO. 24, 7-3

SATURDAY, 4 P.M.

Line: Notre Dame -24.5
The Scoop: The Irish have covered 20+ point spreads against Navy and Maryland in their last three games.
Pick: Notre Dame

USC 8-2 at OREGON NO. 4, 9-1

SATURDAY, 8 P.M.

Line: Oregon -15
The Scoop: The Trojans may become a trendy pick, with the line dropping, but we like the Ducks at home.
Pick: Oregon

CAL 6-4 at STANFORD NO. 8, 9-1

SATURDAY, 8 P.M.

Line: Stanford -18
The Scoop: The Cardinal should bounce back against their rivals.
Pick: Stanford

Coyote ugly: Flyers win

Matt Read snuck a wrist shot past Phoenix goalie Mike Smith to win it for the Flyers with less than a minute remaining in regulation Thursday. Ilya Bryzgalov, making his first start versus his former team, stopped 30-of-31 shots to earn the victory for the Flyers. James van Riemsdyk netted the other Flyers goal. METRO

QUARTERBACK CARNAGE

Fantasy sports

ADAM LEVITAN
ALEVITAN@METRO.US

Wide receivers are the toddlers of the fantasy world. They can't do anything for themselves and like to complain a lot.

So after a week that saw a fistful of quarterbacks go down with injuries, there's reason for concern. After all, a wideout is worthless if his quarterback can't get him the ball. Should we be selling?

Bad for Bowe

With Matt Cassel done for the year, the Chiefs are turning to Tyler Palko. Yikes. Palko is a former undrafted free agent, possesses a weak arm and has poor size. These are all major red flags for an offense that was already skewed toward the run. Sell Dwayne Bowe while you can as his talent can't overcome this.

Trojan horse

Before we write off Matt Leinart, let's remember his credentials coming out of college. He's got a big arm and he's willing to use it. Considering Andre Johnson is perhaps the best all-around receiver in the league, he'll sustain high-end WR2 value.

Vinsanity

If Vince Young ends up starting in place of Michael Vick, look for lots of rollouts and short passes underneath. Give Brent Celek a boost, but don't expect DeSean Jackson to finally break out. Young figures to play it conservative.

NFL news

Murray's job

▶ DeMarco Murray has earned the starting job and he'll keep it. Even though Felix Jones (ankle) is nearly healthy, the Cowboys have confirmed Murray will remain the workhorse. The rookie will sustain RB1 value the rest of the way.

GETTY IMAGES

▶ Dwayne Bowe's arrow is pointing down.

NFL targets

The hierarchy at wideout is always changing. These three are good bets:

1 Antonio Brown, WR, PIT — Hines Ward has been demoted, locking Brown into most two-wide sets. He's a playmaker.

2 Brandon Lloyd, WR, STL — With Tim Tebow, Lloyd would have been a bust. With Sam Bradford/Josh McDaniels, he's a beast.

3 Victor Cruz, WR, NYG — Playing out of the slot, Cruz has become Eli Manning's favorite target in key situations.

Top NFL pickups

Denarius Moore

▶ WR, Raiders
Freakish talent, a full-time starting role and a quarterback not afraid to chuck it deep. Moore is for real.

Lance Ball

▶ RB, Broncos
Knowshon Moreno (knee) is done for the year and the Broncos run the ball 800 times per game.

Vince Young

▶ QB, Eagles
Michael Vick is hurt and won't push it once the Eagles are mathematically eliminated. Young runs.

▶ Schneider celebrates the NL East crown.

Phillies re-sign backup catcher

The Phillies signed Brian Schneider to a one-year contract Thursday, according to GM Ruben Amaro, Jr. The deal is reportedly worth $800,000.

The 34-year-old catcher made 36 starts last season while serving as the primary backup for Carlos Ruiz. Schneider hit .176 with two home runs and nine RBIs in 41 games. He ranks seventh among active catchers in most runners thrown out, with 194.

19 The Phillies went 19-0 with Brian Schneider as their starting catcher from May 7 through Sept. 6.

In other news, Charlie Manuel finished fourth in voting for the NL's Manager of the Year. He has finished sixth or higher since 2005. Also, bench coach Pete Mackanin didn't get the Cubs job, and he is no longer a candidate for the Red Sox gig. METRO
